Fuel Injection Systems. Multiport and sequential fuel injection systems both inject atomized fuel into a port just before the intake valve. There is a difference in the way these systems operate. Multiport injection systems fire the injectors in groups. A four-cylinder engine may fire the #1 and the #3 injectors on the first crankshaft revolution and then fire the #2 and #4 on the second revolution.

Gasoline direct injection (GDI) is a more advanced version of multiport systems, where fuel is injected directly into the combustion chamber instead of the intake port. Direct injection improves combustion efficiency, increases fuel economy and lowers emissions. Both systems use electronic fuel injectors to spray fuel into the engine, but the difference is where they spray the fuel.
