"Rip Van Winkle" is a short story by the American author Washington Irving, first published in 1819. It follows a Dutch-American villager in colonial America named Rip Van Winkle who meets mysterious Dutchmen, imbibes their liquor and falls asleep in the Catskill Mountains. He awakes 20 years later to a very changed world, having missed the American Revolution. Inspired by a conversation on nostalgia with his American expatriate brother-in-law, Irving wrote the story while temporarily living in

He zeroes in on a small village at the foot of these mountains, where a good-natured man named Rip Van Winkle lives. Rip's greatest trouble is his wife, Dame Van Winkle, who is shrewish and constantly nagging Rip about his biggest weakness: that he can find no motivation to engage in profitable labor of any kind. Though he is happy to help on properties that are not his own, he avoids work on his own farm and his land is severely run down.

Legend of Rip Van Winkle, The (1905) *** (out of 4) aka La Légende de Rip Van Winckle French filmmaker Georges Melies does his version of the famous Washington Irving story about a man who runs into the woods to get away only to take a nap that lasts for twenty-years. Certain key points of the story are left out here so purists might be upset but this is a pretty good take on the story.
